Grier's Almanac.

Robert Grier died, May 4th, 1848. Notwithstanding the fact thus noted, the people insist on having Almanacs made by Grier, and strange to relate, Grier's Almanacs are still published, and ignorant people believe the celebrated Almanac maker had something to do with the calculations. But he has not. He has gone where they don't make Almanacs. We ask these lovers of Grier's Almanacs to look on the title page and see who makes the calculations—not Grier, certain.

A Beautiful and Lasting Whitewash.

Take a quarter of a peck of unslacked lime, and pour it in a kettle of boiling water; while the lime is slacking, add half a gallon of stale chamber-ley; when the lime is perfectly slacked, dilute it with water to the proper consistence, and add to this mixture one-quarter of an ounce of Prusian blue. This will give you a beautiful and lasting wash, that will neither peel off nor turn yellow. By increasing the quantity of blue, you may make either a pale or dark blue; and by adding yellow or red ochre, you may impart either of these tints to suit your taste.

To Remove Panes of Glass.—Put soft soap on the putty for a few hours, and it becomes as soft as if just put on, though the putty had become as hard as a stone.

FILMS ON THE EYE.—The easiest as well as most effectual remedy for removing a film from the eye of an animal, is simply to put a teaspoonful of molasses on the eye-ball. Oxen, horses, cows, and sheep, have, in this manner, been relieved.

To Dye Crimson.—To two gallons of the juice of pokeberries, when they are quite ripe, add half a gallon of strong cider vinegar, to dye one pound of wool, which must be first washed very clean with hard soap; the wool, when wrung dry, is to be put into the vinegar and pokeberry juice, and simmered in a copper vessel for one hour; then take it out, let it drip a while, and spread it in the sun. The vessel must be free from grease of any kind.

STAGGERS.—Sheep, as well as horses, are sometimes afflicted with the staggers. It is occasioned by improper food. Oak leaves and buds are particularly prejudicial. They bind the bowels and staggers frequently follow. To cure this disorder, dissolve half an ounce of assafœtida in two quarts of water; give a quarter of a pint, warm, every three hours.

CHINESE METHOD OF MENDING CHINA.—Take a piece of flint glass, beat it to a fine powder, and grind it with the white of an egg; this mixture joins china without riveting, so that no art can break it in the same place. The composition is to be ground extremely fine on a painter's stone.

STARCH.—In making starch from wheat, the grain is steeped in cold water until it becomes soft, and yields a milky juice by pressure; it is then put into sacks of linen, and pressed in a vat, filled with cold water, as long as any milky juice exudes. After standing some time, the fluid gradually becomes clear, and a white powder, which is starch, remains at the bottom.

A CURE FOR RED ANTS.—Common salt is a complete barrier to the approach of the red ant. Let the salt be so placed, that they cannot approach the place from which you wish to exclude them, without passing over it, and the remedy is complete.

STINGS.—Bind on the part a thick plaster of common salt, moistened.

CORN BEER.—Boil one pint of corn, until quite soft, in water to cover it, pour into a jar. Add a quart of syrup or molasses, a handful of dried apples, one ounce pulverized ginger, a cup of solid yeast dissolved in a little warm water, and three gallons of water. Set it in a warm place in winter, and a cool place in summer. It will be fit for use in two days.

TAR FOR SHEEP.—A gentleman who has a large flock of sheep says, that during the season of grazing he gives his sheep tar, at the rate of a gill a day to every twenty sheep. He puts the tar in troughs, sprinkles a little fine salt over it, and the sheep consume it with eagerness. This preserves them from worms in the head, promotes their health in general, and is thought to be a good specific against the rot.

TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE OUT OF RYE.—The rye is to be well cleaned, and then boiled till soft; but care should be taken that it does not burst. It is afterwards to be dried in the sun, or in an oven, and then burnt like coffee. Turn it about frequently, and let it all be well browned, but not black. Do not grind too fine.

ITEMS OF SOUTHERN HISTORY.

1860.

March 4th.—Abraham Lincoln and Hannibal Hamlin elected President and Vice President of the United States. This result of the Presidential election was viewed by the people of the South as an assurance that their political rights in the Union were no longer to be respected; and they, therefore resolved to assert their independence, as our forefathers did in the Revolution of 1776, and set up a Government for themselves. They determined first, however, to try and settle all difficulties, by an effort either to obtain some guarantees from the North that their rights would be respected, or to separate peaceably, if possible. For this purpose, offers of compromise were made by Southern members of Congress, and a Peace Convention assembled in Washington city; and Commissioners were, also, sent to Washington city from South Carolina; but all to no purpose. Hence the States now composing the Southern Confederacy seceded by the adoption of ordinances of secession, which were adopted in State Conventions in the order in which they are here presented:

Dec. 20th—South Carolina seceded.

RAGS! RAGS! RAGS!

WANTED

BY

BURKE, BOYKIN & CO.,

MACON, GA.

12 CENTS PER POUND

WILL BE PAID,

FOR RAGS DELIVERED AT ANY DEPOT IN THE CONFEDERACY.

Save your rags, and save your tags,
Save your good-for-nothing bags—
Bring them to this office, soon,
Bring them morning, eve, or noon.
From the mountain, from the vale,
Where the lingering camp-fires pale,
Where the morning tints the rose,
Where the parting sunset glows,
From the East and from the West,
Bring us rags and do your best;
Bring us scraps of cotton thread,
Bring the night-cap from your head,
Bring the shirt upon your back,
Bring us pieces white or black,
Bring us rags and bring us tags,
Bring us good-for-nothing bags—
Anything just so 'tis clean—
White, or black, or blue, or green,
Anything that paper makes,
Every Editor now takes,
And will pay you for your rags,
And your good-for-nothing bags.
Bring them in, and bring them soon,
Morning, evening, and at noon.
